"MEN'S BETTER WEAR"

If I Owed YOU 2 Dollars

For a year or more and made no effort to "settle up", you would make every effort to collect the two-spot whether it made me "mad" or not, wouldn't you? And you would not be anxious to sell me anything more until I had arranged payment. Then suppose that in addition to me, Smith and Jones, and Bellamy and Whosius owed you each $2.00. Including my debt that makes $10.00 coming to you, and no one paying, each one of your debtors saying: "Why it's only $2.00, what's the hurry?"—but when the $2.00 is multiplied 5 times it's $10, and when its multiplied by hundreds it's a lot of money."

Subscribers receive the Standard every week. The paper, ink and workmanship which enter into it are paid for every week. The subscriptions come due but once a year—Just $2.00—multiplied by hundreds.

Will you recollect that, please, when your "subscription" is past due? Thank you.

SPORT NOTE

CHICAGO WHITE SOX HOPELESS

Commenting on Dazzy Vance's acceptance of terms with the Brooklyn Robins, John E. Wray in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, points out that "The money other ball players are getting in past performance as present pros." Wray asserts that the reported $25,000 Dazzy will receive is almost double the salary paid him this year, he made his best record.

"Baseball is like that," continues Wray. "For example: How is Rogers Hornsby, slowing down and nearing the normal decline period, all padded up with another big contract, goodness knows for what fabulous sum—perhaps between $20,000 and $40,000 annually in some of his best years he got that amount. George Sisler was paid more after his peak, than when he won the most valuable trophy.

"Toby Cobb after more than 50 years in the major leagues, and confessedly ready to retire, was paid twice as much by Philadelphia in one year as he received in his very prime, from Detroit. Numerous other cases tell of great players who received their highest pay after their peak had passed. "It is the belated reward for previously rendered services. Club owners do not feel justified in paying highly for success one or two seasons. Young baseball players flash for the first or second year, wonder why club owners do not pay them as much or more, than older players when the youngsters perhaps have outdone. Owners figure that a player's condition value to a club through a number of years is what counts, and not his finish for one or two seasons."

ATTEMPT TO 'FIX' RACE

TORONTO—The story is related how Percy Williams, the Canadian sprint wizard and world champion was approached by another sprinter, a well known American performer, and asked to lay down in a race so that they could then hold-up the promoters of the meet for more money.

Williams, according to the story, not only refused to entertain the proposition, but also refused to enter another meet with the runner. Percy Williams' coach, was also approached in the matter but didn't entertain it for a minute.

"It is little wonder that we as Canadians are proud of Williams, but also of the splendid manner in which he has always played the game," says the Toronto Globe in commenting on the reports.

JACK DEMPSEY WAS GIVEN SHORT DEAL

NEW YORK—Burning up over what he considered a direct double-cross by the Garden crowd, Jack Dempsey has definitely decided to set forth again in quest of the heavyweight crown.

Intimate friends of the Manassa Mauler expect his first essay as a come-back hero will find him pitted against some worthy opponent in Windsor, Canada, in September, and later on in the winter he'll attempt to locate the diadem from the brow that the boxing commission may have hailed as heavyweight champion. Naturally, he will box only for Humberto Fugazy, his co-trainer.

While Dempsey has always been as vacillating as a weathercock, and his foregone plans are liable to be abandoned over night, Jack has set his heart of attaining success for himself and co-promoters, and at the same time even up his score with the Garden outfit. He feels that if he could not win back that championship, his triumphs would be complete, and he's willing to take the chances of getting his black knockout "off" in his efforts to attain his aims.

What is said to be the inside story is that White Dempsey was with Carey in Florida engaged in promoting the Sharkey-Stirling scrap for the Garden. The Garden was engaged in setting up every loophole that might offer competition from other promoters.

During all this while, no successor to Tex Blackhawk at the Garden was chosen. Carey was elected president only after the Polo Grounds was acquired and as many fighters as possible signed to contracts. Dempsey was completely disillusioned and disgusted when he returned from the Florida city to discover that all he was to receive in the shape of an offer from the Garden was a patronizing pat on his broad shoulders and a lot of "bull about what a fine fellow he was and how much the Garden directors thought of him.

The Late Mr. Knyvett

Editor, Strathmore Standard,
Dear Sir:

It is with feelings of regret that I heard of the death of Mr. W. Knyvett, having known him when a lad in my teens, when we used to play cricket together.

In a pretty little Norfolk village lying close to the sea, and where the Sagitt and Lawing and Golden Plovers were found in abundance, I lived on a farm with my parents, and next to us was a rich gentleman by the name of Richard Munson, Esq., whose chief hobby was the raising and showing of Hackney horses, and that is where I met Mr. Knyvett, who was breaking horses for that gentleman. In the evenings when our work was done, we used to ride horseback to play cricket.

After leaving the farm I went to the cities and lost track of "Bill". In later years I married and decided to come to Canada, and Strathmore was our destination, and imagine my surprise on arrival here, the first man I met was "Bill" Knyvett.

I extent to Mr. Knyvett and family, my deepest sympathy. These are the kind of horses that Mr. Knyvett was handling, and was looked upon in England as a first-class horseman. I could write a lot about these horses, but time will not permit. I extent to Mr. Knyvett and family, my deepest sympathy.

been taken to appeal the Ontario decision.

The Ontario department of insurance, subsequent to the judgment of the Supreme Court, took the law into their own hands and allowed the New England mutual companies to hold provincial licenses. The Dominion law requires that any insurance company to hold a Dominion license must deposit funds with the department at Ottawa. The New England mutuals never would do this.

Dominion Levies Tax
The Dominion law also states that any person taking out insurance with a company not licensed by the Dominion, must pay a tax of five per cent to Ottawa. The companies operating under provincial licenses only are paying this at present, but are doing so under protest.

There is in the courts at present, a suit against the Dominion Government instigated by a number of companies who have given up their Dominion licenses. These companies, under the law, made deposits at Ottawa and subsequently decided to do business under the provincial laws as reciprocal insurers and now demand the return of their deposits, which demand is not being accepted by the Ottawa. The case was recently withdrawn on account of a judicial objection to the wording of the writ, but the Financial Post is informed that this is being remedied.

Is Unique Suit
The suit by the Ontario Government is unique, in that one Attorney-General is challenging the authority of another. The Dominion department of insurance has taken the stand that it is necessary for the business to have a central control, while its opponents base

AMERICAN PAPERS AGAINST TARIFF

Boston News Bureau, Boston: No-where are our preliminary tariff admissions watched more closely than in Canada. Already the proposed increases in the tariff on the manufactured goods and raw materials of the Dominion have stirred up in Canadians the disagreeable prospect of retaliatory measures.

The tremendous potential buying power of Canada appears in the fact that, though she has a smaller population than the single state of Pennsylvania, she ranks fifth in foreign trade among the nations of the world. Even more pertinent to the problems of American tariff policy is Canada's position as our best customer. One-fifth of the entire exports of the United States goes to the Canadian market; and Canada buys from us yearly $300,000,000 more than we buy from her. Moreover, our imports from Canada are mainly newsprint and needed raw materials that our exports are made up, almost wholly, of manufactured goods.

It may not be true, except as a matter of business policy, that the customer is always right. But two great neighbors who are a geographical unit would gain more from an approach to economic unity than from a tariff war. Far better the greatest possible interchange of goods than an unconsidered increase of duties that would affect adversely a fifth of our entire export trade.

Journal of Commerce, New York: According to reports which have been sent to various newspapers in this city by trustworthy correspondents in that country, the inhabitants of Canada from west to east are feeling a good deal of worry at the proposal that has been made to adopt tariff duties at Washington which are quite manifestly intended to discriminate against them. Among these are the very high rates on farm products of various classes. True, they do not specifically discriminate against Canada, because they are technically applicable to goods from all parts of the world, but since Canada is the only quarter from which we are likely to get these goods in very large volume, they do, as a matter of fact, operate as a severe handicap upon Canadian trade with the United States. There are many other phases of the situation that appear to figure largely, but this one may be taken as a sample of all.

It ought not to be necessary to enlarge upon the various reasons why friendly and considerate policy ought to be pursued by this country toward Canada. There are many such, and most of them are based upon the highest grounds of international good.

PARIS.—One nation after another has opened its diplomatic archives and published the principal texts in order to reveal the history of the origin of the past war, and France now joins the list. The committee established by the Foreign Affairs Ministry to sift the French documents that announced the appearance shortly of the first volume. The entire foreign history of France will, in fact, be laid bare from 1870 to 1914. The work of the successive governments since the Third Republic, the detail of difficulties encountered by the French diplomatic representatives and the development of negotiations leading to political agreements will be exposed down to the dawn of the World War.

Events have been followed chronologically and are not classified under headings, the intention being to emphasize their historical sequence. A systematic investigation has been pursued.

Many Files Explored
All the documents in the Foreign Affairs Ministry have been examined without exception. The files of the Ministries of War, Colonies and Navy, in so far as they touched on foreign matters, have been explored and analyzed.

Division of Groups
The whole have been grouped in these main divisions: 1871 to 1900 (Bismarck's victory, the constitution of the Triple Alliance); 1901 to Nov. 4, 1911 (constitution of the Triple Alliance of Agadir); Nov. 4, 1911, to 1914 (the Italo-Turkish war, the Balkan conflicts, the Sarajevo assassination).

Five to ten years will probably elapse before the public is in possession of the full 50 volumes to be issued, but the first three are due to appear this May. These are considered respectively to the closing weeks of 1911 and the beginning of 1912 to the year 1901 and the years from 1871 to 1875. The national printing office has given the job of printing, but Europe's Nouvelle, a weekly periodical devoted to politics, is responsible for their publication. It was Russia which in 1917 first fed the veil from its secret archives, and two years later Austria and Germany did the same. Toward the end of 1926 Great Britain published its first volume of such documents and Italian historians are known to be busy now on a similar work.

seemed impossible and the government depleted of being able to present any reductions in taxation to the electors.

Just at this time, however, the influenza epidemic came to Churchill's rescue and brought total receipts from duty duties to $100,000,000, or $40,000,000 more than the chancellor estimated. The income tax yield was also higher than expected, but the super tax shows a decline, which is evidence that this tax is reaching a limit.

The nation is apparently drinking less intoxicants, because the yield from excise duties has gained $400,000 less than hoped for. It would appear, then, that what Churchill gained by death, he lost by sobriety.

Meanwhile government supporters are naturally elated by what they call the chancellor's triumph, and then, by opposing political parties describe his surplus as Churchill's luck. He will now be able to announce some taxation relief on budget day, and Tory stock is certain to improve in the election market.

The relief, however, cannot be spectacular because of the surplus is sufficient. A cheaper breakfast table is the most likely outcome, owing to the fact that the conservatives would like to meet Labor's forecast of a shilling man's budget by lightening the duties on tea, coffee and cocoa.

FOLK FESTIVAL FOR GREAT WEST

If the folk song, dance and handicraft festival developing into a permanent festival of life in the Prairie Province of Western Canada? It would seem so. The first of the series of folk festivals at the Royal Alexandra Hotel, Winnipeg, raised the hope that it would become an annual event, and the announcement of this year's festival to take place at Regina, March 20th to 23rd, has been generally welcomed as an indication of the establishing of the festival in the artistic life of the prairies. Those who witnessed last year's festival will never forget it. National costumes formed a riot of color, and national dances a perfect whirl of staid and dashing movement, while the music, both vocal and instrumental, was of such a standard as to set a high mark for future festivals.

The programme already arranged for the Regina Festival will be thoroughly representative of the various races that make up Canada's West. Eighteen racial groups will contribute their national songs and dances, and handicrafts, and the display of many colored national costumes will form a series of brilliant pictures. All four countries of the British Isles will participate and European races that comprise these new Canadians will include Hungarians, Czechs, Ukrainians, Serbians, Poles, Danes, Norwegians, Dutch, and Germans, while from older Canada there will be French-Canadians, and the Department of Indian Affairs is arranging an exhibit of the handicrafts of the Indians of the prairies.

A great field of varied endeavor and the fruit of a score of different cultures will thus be paid before the people of the West during the Festival and the way Canada is being enriched by her New Canadian citizens from overseas will be demonstrated. Concerts in connection with the Festival will be given at the High School and in the Dark Music Hall of the Regina College.

HEARD ON THE STREET

Aunt Het was telling Ernie White-side that she did not know that she had done anything very wicked during her 60 years existence, about the worst was when she had her picture taken, that she sat so that her prettiest ankle would show. "Pearly gates for you," replied Ernie, "you have done well."

Inquisitive Old Lady: "My little boy, have you no better way to spend this beautiful afternoon than by standing in front of the gate idling away your time?"
Small Boy: "I ain't idling away my time. There's a chap inside with my sister, and he's paying me two-bits an hour to watch for pa. Ain't that good business?"

After a visit to Calgary Jim Swanson told Jean Kimmitt: "Some of them bank tellers are pretty slick with their fingers. I seen a teller in one of them banks, and blow me if he didn't have to keep a wet sponge alongside to keep his fingers from getting red hot. He told me so hisself."

"Now, children," said the school teacher, "can any of you tell me of a greater power than a king?"
"Yes, mam," cried a little boy eagerly.

"Very well you may tell the class," replied the teacher.
"An Ace," was the unexpected reply. King Kelly said that kid knew what he was talking about, and it all proves to Kelly that money spent on education is a real investment."

Bill's wife was reading a newspaper and saw an advertisement on baldness "Bill," she said, "I say here, mes grow bald 'ca' of the intense activity of your brain?"
"Aye, exactly," replied Bill, "an' wimmen hev no whiskers 'ca' of the intense activity of their chins!"

A Negro preacher walked into the office of a Southern newspaper and said: "Miss Editor, there is forty-nine of my congregation which subscribe to yo' paper. Do that entitle me to have a church notice in yo' Sunday issue?"

"Sitt down and write," said the Editor.
"I thank you," And this is the notice the minister wrote: "Mount Memorial Church, the Rev. John Walker, pastor. Preaching morning and evening. In the promulgation of the gospel, three books are necessary: The Bible, the hymn book, and the pocketbook. Come tomorrow and be sure to bring the latter, the church will furnish the others."

Doctor McGovern heard muted sounds of a struggle in the other room, and a girl's voice squealed, "Stop." No response.
"Oh, please don't. Mother said —" No response.
"Oh, wait just a minute, please." No response.
"Let me go this minute." "Just a moment and I'll have it out," consoled Dr. Haworth, the dentist, and he did.

Teacher: "Young man, that's the third time you've looked at your neighbor's paper."
Student: "I know it, but it's not my fault. He doesn't write legibly."

"What is your name?" asked the mistress of the house.
"Gloria Fing Wook," was the prospective cook's reply.

"My, that's altogether too much to remember. I'll call you John."
The Chinese, by slightly inclining his head, seemed to express agreement with the proposition. And then asked: "What's your name?"

"My name is Mervyn van der Biltenda Langensluis," graciously replied the lady.
"Oh, too long," was the cook's comment. "I call you Charlie."

Son: "Congratulate, and collect money the name, don't they, father?"
Father (to minister): "Son, there is a vast difference between a congregation and a collection."

Clerk: "Sir, my wife wants me to take the afternoon off for shopping."
Manager: "Impossible."
Clerk: "Thank you, sir."

A lady went to a grocery shop and asked for a dollar's worth of black hen eggs.
The grocer said: "How can I tell black hen eggs?"

The lady said: "Oh, I can tell if you will allow me to select."
Needless to say, she picked all the largest.

City Policeman: "Have ye yer permit for drivin' the car?"

Motorist: "I have that. Are ye wantin' to see it?"
City Policeman: "What for would I be wantin' to see it? Ye have it?"
It's if he had at that I'd want a look at it."

Tramp (at back door): "I don't know where your next meal is coming from."
Lloyd Hutchison: "Well, this is not an information here."

A farmer once asked Bill Van Oie for advice as follows:
"I have a horse that at times appears normal, but at other times is liable to an alarming degree. What shall I do?"

Van Oie: "The next time that your horse appears normal, sell him, but you can't sell him to me."

"Are you sure you have shown me all the principal parts of this car?" asked the fair prospective purchaser.
"Yes, madam, all the main ones," replied Spence Hughes.

"Well, then, what is the deprecation Tom told me that was one of the biggest things about a car?"

"That surely," said the haughty passenger, "if I pay the fare for my dog he will be treated the same as other passengers and be allowed to occupy my seat."
"Of course, madam," D. A. Perry replied politely, "provided he does not put his feet on it."

He dashed into the drug store, wild-eyed, shaking a little bottle under the nose of Jack Collins.
"Here," he exclaimed, "see what you've done!" I asked for quinine and you have given me prussic acid!"

"Is that so?" answered Jack calmly. "Then you owe the boss fifty cents more."

The notice, "Wanted," was displayed in the window, and Jimmy Jones, after gazing at it thoughtfully for a minute or two stepped into the shop.
"What kind of boy is it you want?" he asked the owner.

"Oh, a decent sort of lad—one who is quick and willing, one who isn't lazy and doesn't whistle, one who knows his manner, one—"
Jimmy Jones thrust his hands into his pockets and eyed the shopkeeper.

"Here," he cried. "You don't want a boy at all. You want a girl!"

Small Girl: "But, Mr. Dunn, how can it be a 'darned' corner when you say it has eighteen holes in it?"

Ernie Whitehouse says: "If the inventor of the antishock iron golf club will produce an anti-sneeze club, he will be hard pressed to meet the demand."

CALGARY-MEDICINE HAT MAIN HIGHWAY

Otto D. Christensen and Ed. Christensen, of Strathmore, were in Husar Monday, reviving interest in the Calgary-Medicine Hat highway being graded, ready for gravel, at least as far as Husar this year. Now that the Rosedale highway is completed, most of the Drumheller and Wayne traffic south and west goes by way of Husar.

Traffic from the East over this direct route has been increasing rapidly until now practically 100% use this route.

Two years ago a petition of over 800 signatures was taken to Edmonton by a committee composed of Messrs J. B. Hurry and W. J. Hoagland and placed before the Hon. Minister of Public Works, urging that the Highway be extended from Calgary due East to the township line, one mile east of Husar, thence south and east to Bassano, pointing out that this route would serve by far the greater territory, being the most direct with easy grades and solid clay foundation.

Engineers going over this route later found, besides these conditions, that there were several good pits tributary which would be available for gravel. Since that time new conditions have developed that make it a certainty that this highway will be extended due east to the Red Deer river to tap the country east of it, and a direct highway for Dorothy, Gem and Crawley Valley.

It is inconceivable that the Dept. of Public Works, as efficient as the Alberta Dept., should overlook these facts but in order to expedite matters it is proposed that the Husar Board of Trade, through its secretary, set in motion such C.P.A. organizations and Boards of Trade, urging them to pass resolutions that the Hon. Minister definitely decide on the Main Highway from Calgary due East to a substantial amount of grading be done this year.

FAULT FINDING KNOCKERS ADMIT THEIR FAILURE

That community is indeed poor about which nothing good can be said, but poorer still is the citizen so blinded by petty prejudice and self interest that his criticisms of the town of his abode are many and never interspersed with approbation.

Just as every human being has faults, every community, which is but a collection of human beings, has defects. But considering the number of human failings, is it not surprising that the average city and town has so few shortcomings and can please so many.

In spite of these civic deficiencies there is not a community, not even the gloomiest frontier settlement, which if it should count noses, would find its knockers exceeding in numbers its boosters. Would one say these who are blind to their town's disadvantages are more nearsighted than those who cannot see its advantages?

There would be less knocking if knockers realized that community is just what its citizens make it and that it is a confession of personal weakness to diagnose the home town as incurably sick and decrepit. By their fault finding knockers admit they have failed to do their part in making their town fit their ideal of what a community should be.

That citizen best serves his community who is unstinting in his praise where praise is due, and who is fearless in his condemnation of things to be condemned.

PEOPLE EXPERIENCE
YOUTH BUT YOUTH ONLY

How many cling to life and to life's joys! One of the richest men on earth has been heard to say that he would give well-nigh all he possesses for a healthy, normal stomach. Quota line their pockets with easy gold by merely holding out the hope that by a gland transplantation the old may be made young again. He who has lived to 60 or better and finds the fires of youth cooling like embers on the hearthstone, fondly believes that he would gain something could he recover the physical abilities of youth and couple them with the ripened experiences of elderly manhood.

We experience youth but once, the rounded experience of manhood but once, the twilight hours of decadence but once, life and death but once. There can be no turning backward of the years, the hours or the minutes. This moment which elapses between the reading of the last paragraph and this sentence has been rolled into the unnumbered centuries which mark the past. It will never recur.

Youth but once! That is the sentence of deity. But it is not a hard sentence. It is possible to so live the days we have that even when the physical abilities are breaking down there remains a joy and gladness in the softening twilight hours.

A WORKABLE
GRAIN ACT
MOST DIFFICULT

R. J. Deachman, who represents the Consumers' League at Ottawa, presents a most interesting statement in connection with the Grain Act, which is being given so much consideration and which is of so vital interest to every person in the West.

He says: John Evans (Rosemont, Sask.) threw the house into a discussion of the Grain Act. The subject, of course, is "Ditch" to eastern men; but it is the very life of the west. Naturally, every western member rises to it like trout to flies. (Trout never rise to anything when I went fishing but let that pass.) Grain commissions without end have studied the problem—there is one sitting statement of the question, on the face of it, seems extremely simple. The west produces a great deal of grain; it must be graded. How to grade that grain and put it on the market so that every individual farmer will get what is coming to him, is, in a sentence, the problem before Parliament. Now this is a question on which there is no great political difference of opinion. It may be assumed that "Ditch," "Dry," Labor and Progressive are anxious that this legislation should be passed in the House of Commons, as will accomplish that very purpose. There is no one on any side of the house desirous of exploiting the western farmer in regard to the marketing of his grain.

There are differences of opinion, but real downright perverseness does not exist, so far as can be seen in this problem. Ditch is that fact, it would baffle the mind of man to devise ways and means to accomplish this apparently simple object.

Should grain be mixed? The problem rests there. Grain is graded at Winnipeg. No. 3 may be close to No. 2 without being close enough to enter that class. It may be that a bit of lower grade can be mixed with it and yet it may still retain its grade. As there is quite a wide spread between grades, naturally if you are able to do that, you have succeeded in making some money. It is argued of course by those who do the mixing, that by mixing we secure a better market for the lower grades of grain than they otherwise would secure. That, however, is counterbalanced by the assertion on the other hand that we get a lower price for the better grades than we would otherwise obtain. Naturally men who are in sections which produce the better grades—and these sections are often the dry sections of the country where the average crop is lower—are anxious to secure and are entitled to secure every cent that they can possibly obtain. It is a nice question. It has been up in the house time and time again. It will remain before the house, I think if it will ever be settled. It seems like a question involved of solution.

There is still one other problem. Millers' desires of securing the best grain for milling purposes go into the yards at Winnipeg and select cars which are especially suited to their purpose. This is called "skinning" the grade. If the Canadian millers are permitted to "skin" or "chill" the grade, then it goes without saying that the average grade which reaches the buyer in the country will be lower and so he will pay a lower price for Canadian grain because this "skinning" process has been done before it reaches him.

This looks like a serious matter. If I may venture a personal opinion, I think it is. How are you going to sort it? That is not so simple. How are you to prevent a miller from going into the market and buying fifty carloads of wheat, taking them to his own mill and afterwards selling forty of these cars if he doesn't want to use them? The whole problem of the grain marketing of grain over which Parliament is struggling so strenuously, is not so easy to answer. With the best of intentions we struggle blindly by trial and error. The end is not in sight.

DO YOU KNOW THE UNAPPARENT SIN?

In his preachment Elbert Hubbard reflects: "I am not sure just what the unpardonable sin is, but I believe it is the disposition to postpone and evade the payment of small bills." How vast is the army of workmen for their fellowmen who can say amen to that little sermon!

Perhaps there are sins more unpardonable than the postponement and evasion of bill-paying, but at least it can not be said that there is a sin more frequent in commission. Trades people, professional men and other public servants will attest to the latter as a declaration of fact.

No one would place the brand of "dead beat" upon all who are slow in paying. There are extenuating circumstances in all phases of life and patience.

NATIONS LACK FAITH IN THEIR NEIGHBORS

The talk about the "brotherhood of man" causes one to wonder if the foundations for such a idealistic relationship have yet been laid. It is a fact that the civilized world has long been laboring on those foundations but do they now stand completed? From the evidence in the case before us, it must be that they are not.

A "brotherhood of man" must be preceded by a universal faith in man. As long as individuals, nations and races can not—or at least do not—trust one another, there can be no brotherhood.

Mutual distrust seems as instinctive in man as in the jungle beasts. Nations maintain large armies and navies because they distrust their neighbors and men pass laws because they lack faith in the honesty and judgment of each other.

Perhaps there is greater faith in man today than at any other time in recorded history. There is much to sustain such a conclusion. But man still lacks that universal understanding and faith which is essential to a "brotherhood of man."

NAMAKA

Mrs. Hinchliff, of Strathmore, spent the week end at the home of Mrs. E. C. Watts.

Mr. Harold Wooster, who has been suffering from crystalline eye, is glad to report, much better.

One of the best entertainments ever presented to a Namaka audience was given in the L.O.O.F. Hall on Wednesday evening, April 3rd, by the C.G.I.T., assisted by local artists. The program was as follows: Lantern Slide, Peter Pan; Play, "Nada"; solo and chorus Merle Baker and C.G.I.T.; recitation, Joan Thompson; violin solo, Dorothy Colpoys; solo, Mrs. Waters; athletic girls drill, C.G.I.T.; piano solo, Mary Louise McBean; violin solo, Mr. Lewis; Bashful Reuben song and drill, Art and Charlie Bremner, Frances, Behn and Merle Baker; piano solo, Marjorie Wooster; guitar and violin duet, Mrs. Pyle and Mr. Bronner; Grandmother's dance, C.G.I.T.; Lantern Slide, "Across Canada via C.P.R.," "Ood Save the King," Mr. H. Thompson made an efficient chairman, while Mr. Casselman very capably looked after the lantern slides. During the intermission the orchestra played several selections, which were much appreciated. Although each item of the programme was enthusiastically received by the large audience, special mention should be made of the play, which is a true African missionary story, and the Bashful Reuben Song and Drill by four of the most popular young people in Namaka. These taking part in the play were: Alberta Watson, Frances Behn, Ruth McKenney, Merle Baker and Dorothy Colpoys. Each one did her part exceptionally well, which speaks volumes for the girls and their leader, Mrs. Waters. As to the Bashful Reuben Drill, the hearty applause testified to the splendid manner in which it was executed. At the close of the program Mrs. Waters tendered the thanks of the C.G.I.T. and herself to all who had helped in any way to make the evening a success.

Do You Buy Advertised Goods?

Of course you do; everybody does. Just run over in your mind the various articles that have been purchased in the last week or the last month. How about foods? Your breakfast fruits, cereals and bacon are all advertised. Probably that is how you first came to know of them—through advertising. Probably the shoes you are wearing, or the dress or suit you have on are equally well-known advertised makes, and you are proud of them.

In the home. On the floor are rugs and linoleum—the better wearing kinds are extensively advertised. What about the kitchen? Aluminum ware, gas ranges, hot water heaters, dish and clothes washers, cooking utensils of all kinds—practically everything you use is advertised. You buy advertised products because you have confidence in them. You know that a manufacturer cannot afford to advertise shoddy or unworthy merchandise.

Advertising is one form of insurance. It gives you a feeling of perfect confidence and safety when you ask for an advertised brand, for you know that you will get the quality and service you expect. The name is a guarantee.

The more you read advertising the more you will know about human progress. You will become well posted in almost every line of human endeavor and a canny judge of values. Reading advertisements is a fine habit. Cultivate it.

Read the advertisements and buy advertised goods. They are the safest investment.
